Restrictive gun laws cause dealer to bail out

by Jerry Grozelle

The tightened restriction on the sale and ownership of firearms has squeezed one of the region's largest dealers out of the business.

Starting on September 2, the Norland Trading Company will be liquidating its inventory of more than 300 firearms.

Owners of the business, Lorne and Rena Parno said they have been thinking about quitting the gun business for about a year. The decision was made in mid-August.

An avid gun enthusiast since he was a teenager, Lorne said: "They've taken all of the fun out of it. The bloom has gone off the rose for me. You can't handle another product without all the BS."

He was referring to the government regulations that are continuing to get more and more restrictive.

"Most of our customers are telling us they aren't going to renew their FACs (Firearms Acquisition Certificates)," Lorne said. "They're really defiant — they say they're not going to take the course."

Lorne said that he has had mixed feelings about the decision to give up the gun business.

"I was going to do it last year, but I talked myself out of it," he said.

Recent government changes require everyone to write an examination and take a practical test to get an FAC. The course is optional, but a necessity for anyone who doesn't have extensive knowledge of all firearms, including handguns. It takes two eight-hour days and costs approximately $100, for the course, reference manual and testing fee, depending on who is giving the course. Then, it is another $25 to fill out the application for a renewal certificate or $50 if it is a new application.

Lorne said that the surplus military arms business has "dried right up" since new, more restrictive regulations came into effect.

"We felt it was time to bail out, before the regulations get even tighter," Rena said. "We can sense that it's going to happen."

The Trading Company will continue to sell ammunition, for the time being.

Lorne says there are all kinds of rumours flying about new gun laws and, unless some changes are made, it won't be worth the hassle to be in the gun business.

Among the unconfirmed rumours are talk of regulating the transfer of firearms, similar to transferring ownership of an automobile; the requirement of a Firearms Acquisition Certificate to purchase ammunition; registration of all firearms; and the banning and confiscation of all handguns, to cite a few.

"I don't know if it's true, but I've even heard that there are no government personnel authorized to issue permits to anybody who wants to open a new gun business," Lorne said. "They have four people set up to help close gun businesses though."

The sale of firearms accounts for about 15 per cent of the company's revenue. By eliminating that end of the business, they say they may have to lay off one or two employees. During the spring, summer and fall, Norland Trading Company employs a total of 15 people. In the winter, the number of employees averages eight.

In an attempt to recoup some of the losses that the gun sales used to bring in, the Parnos plan to expand the outdoor Families from the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents gathered at the cottage of Kevin and Phyllis DeGrace for the association's Eighth Annual Corn Roast on August 20. Participants of all ages took part in a variety of activities such as the horseshoe tournament (above) and the 20-yard dash (left). The theme for the day was "The Fifties", with many of the people dressed in 1950s costumes.

So who gets to claim the deposit?

A cow moose met with an untimely death last Wednesday evening, when she jumped out onto Highway 503, west of Kinmount, into the path of a pick-up truck.

Driver of the truck, Bruce Grozelle of Oshawa, wasn't injured, although the pick-up sustained extensive damage.

The accident occurred at about 9 p.m. near the Crego Lake Road about two miles west of Kinmount.

Grozelle reported the accident to the Ministry of Natural Resources and claimed the animal for its meat. He was surprised, when the animal was being field dressed, to discover the moose had swallowed a beer bottle.

clothing lines and add to the fishing tackle assortment.

"We will expand the more socially acceptable, consumer oriented lines," Rena said.

Staff members were informed of the decision to get out of gun sales about two weeks ago.

"The staff was very despondent," Rena said. "They were devastated. But, you've got to cut the cord sometime."

Lorne has his theory about why the governments are coming down increasingly hard on firearms owners.

"The whole thing is political," he said. "Maybe 10 or 15 per cent of the population are gun enthusiasts. As for the other 85 to 90 per cent, their only exposure to guns is limited to what they see and read in the media. All they see is violent crime."

Lorne points out that it is more politically expedient to focus on the smaller number of legitimate, law abiding gun owners to appease the masses who are screaming for the government to do something about violent crime. He added that the governments know that increasing restrictions on legitimate gun owners won't do anything to solve the violent crime problems, but most politicians are jumping on the bandwagon to get votes from the uninformed majority.

"Those who scream the loudest....," Rena said, obviously feeling no need to finish the adage.

In spite of government regulations, Lorne said that he will continue to carry reloading equipment and supplies for those who load their own rifle, handgun and shotgun ammunition.

The business opened in 1983 and has carried firearms since the beginning.

"It's the end of an era," Rena said.

End of an Era: Rena and Lorne Parno, owners of Norland Trading Company, are seen here with some of the inventory of guns that will be liquidated in September. After 11 years in the gun business, they're surrendering to government regulations.

1994 Municipal Election Campaign

Who's Running?

A preliminary look at the activity in the municipal election campaign shows the interest level in most area municipalities has not yet peaked.

With the exception of Stanhope Township where there are more than enough candidates for most positions, there is a need for more candidates.

Still, there are some interesting races taking shape, especially for the reeveships. Minden, Galway, Glamorgan, Snowdon and Stanhope each have more than one candidate vying for the seat.

The following is a preliminary list of candidates compiled from information provided by the candidates and the various municipal offices. Candidates have until October 14 to register for this election.

Council struck by bowling alley proposal

Briefly

Minden Council Notes

Brothers Daryl and Brian Moore were back at the Anson, Hindon and Minden council chambers last week to get final approval for their site plan agreement at West Side Jug City. The latest changes involve the paving of the parking lot.

Council endorsed the revised agreement and passed two by-laws regarding the site. One by-law was to authorize the site plan agreement and the other was to amend the Zoning By-law to allow a bowling alley to be constructed on the lower floor of the Highway 35 building.

Although council has given its blessing to the bowling alley project, the Moores must wait the prescribed 20 days to see if anyone within 400 feet of the site files an objection.

A public meeting was held on August 17 to hear submissions for and against the proposal. No objections were heard at that time.

Cabin Fever

Lawyer David Bishop, representing Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell of Soyers Lake, appealed to council to grant an extension of one year for the Campbells to remove a cabin from their property.

The Campbells are planning to build an addition on their cottage and turn it into a permanent home. One of the conditions attached to the rezoning application on the property is that the cabin must be moved so it will be outside the 66 foot shoreline allowance on Soyers Lake. It is currently within the 66 foot allowance and has been for 30 years or more.

Bishop was asking for the 12-month extension in the time frame for moving or demolishing the building so the Campbells could get on with the renovations and be moved in before the onset of winter.

The scenario was presented to the municipality's lawyer Doug Christie, who advised against such an agreement.

The Campbells were prepared to post a $3,000 performance bond as a guarantee that they would comply with the order. But Christie had reservations about liability if it got to the stage where the municipality was forced to move the building.

Reeve Bern Berry was also concerned about setting a precedent that might open a floodgate of similar requests.

"These are law-abiding people; they're going to comply," Bishop said.

In the end, council opted to heed the municipality's lawyer and deny the extension.

Black Top

During discussions regarding the roads accounts, it was pointed out that the resurfacing of the section of Bobcaygeon Road extending to Highway 118 was complete.

Councillor Jerry Rome said that he met a resident of the municipality who lives along that stretch of Bobcaygeon Road, who expressed appreciation for a job well done.

There was some discussion, at a council meeting earlier this summer, regarding the sign on Highway 118 identifying the road as Main Street, Minden.

Roads superintendent Clayton Cameron was instructed to contact the Ministry of Transportation to ask that the sign be changed to Bobcaygeon Road, to avoid confusion.

Cameron was told by the ministry that when the resurfacing of Highway 118 was completed the sign would be changed. Cameron will contact ministry officials to remind them of the requested change.

Riverbanks

Under the heading of infrastructure, Cameron noted that work along the Gull River in Minden has to be delayed until the water level recedes. That is expected to happen during the first couple of weeks of September.

Berry wondered aloud whether the water levels might better be controlled by restricting the flow at the dams on Horseshoe and Mountain lakes.

Explaining Death To A Child Is As Important As Explaining Life.

(Not To Mention As Difficult)

As parents we know it's not easy to talk with our children about the beginning of life. But what about the ending of life? Both of these are subjects equally important for them to understand.

Yet, while explaining life is often a matter of simply overcoming a little embarrassment, there's nothing embarrassing about death. Death can be a very traumatic event for a child, especially when it's not understood.

The best way to educate your child on death is to educate yourself on the subject first. That's why we've made available a variety of booklets and other information that deal with children and death.

They're yours for the asking. Simply fill out the coupon, call, or stop by, and we'll provide you with complimentary copies.

Cottagers tidy up lakeside environment

For the past seven or eight years Ray and Eleanor Lymer have been organizing a Pitch-In campaign around South Lake. The project is aimed at cleaning up litter along the roads in the neighbourhood.

About 35 people from the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents gathered at the Lymer's cottage on the morning of August 21. They were issued Pitch-In garbage bags and assigned sections of the area roads from which to pick up the litter.

Many of the participants were youngsters. They were given basic safety instructions and were accompanied by an adult. The age range of participants was from toddlers to seniors.

"The amount of garbage we pick up now is a lot less than it was when we started, even though there is more traffic along the roads," Ray Lymer said. "Either people aren't throwing out as much garbage or more people are picking up the litter on a regular basis."

Everyone who took part in the clean-up was issued with a badge in the shape of a pig. The badge had the letters PIG, which stands for Pitch In Gang.

The first Pitch-In event at South Lake saw about 60 participants and they collected a small mountain of garbage compared to what was picked up this year.

In recent years, the number of participants has averaged 40 people of all ages. This year there were 35 people in the clean-up crew and only 15 bags of garbage were collected.

"That's a pretty good sign," Ray Lymer said. "People are more aware of the environment."

Everyone who took part in the Pitch-In was given a ticket for a free hot dog at the association's annual barbecue and corn roast later that day.

"It gets the association involved in a community project," Lymer said.

The garbage is sorted and anything that is recyclable goes into the recycling bins at the landfill site.

Clean-up crew: Some of the volunteers who helped make the area around South Lake a cleaner place, gathered at the Lymer's cottage on Hospitality Road before heading out the pick up litter along the area roads. People are being more conscientious about littering, because this year's Pitch-In campaign only turned up 15 bags of garbage.

Minden council wants public fisheries hearing

The Ministry of Natural Resources' proposed trout management proposals were again the topic of discussion at Minden Council last Thursday.

Reeve Bern Berry said he still feels there should be a public meeting, where people can voice their concerns as a group.

The ministry's official position is that there is no need for further meetings and that ministry personnel are prepared to talk to the public on a one-to-one basis.

Berry said he was surprised that ministry staff members had so much time on their hands that they could talk to so many concerned anglers on an individual basis. He suggested that another meeting could deal with those concerns all at one time.

Deputy-Reeve Lewis Stevens said he thinks many people who have to go to the ministry office will be intimidated.

"They (Ministry officials) seem to be saying, 'you come to us, we're not going to you'," he said.

Councillor Jeanne Anthon agreed that another meeting would be beneficial and that the options in the ministry's questionnaire were "too narrow in scope".

She also said cottage associations have been part of the problem in the past and that they want to be a part of the solution.

Anthon commended the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association for its work to rehabilitate some of the trout spawning beds on area lakes.

Council reviewed a letter to the Ministry of Natural Resources from president Ted Vasey outlining the association's position on the proposed trout management strategy.

"It's good that we have an organization to address the concerns of local anglers," Berry said.

The fact that Drag Lake has been closed to winter fishing for several years, without any sign of improvement in the trout fishery, was an argument with which most of council agreed. They are opposed to the closure of winter trout fishing, partly on that basis and partly because of the economic impact it might have.

"The ministry needs to look closely at the economics," Berry said. "It is part of their mandate (to ensure that all stakeholders are treated equitably)."

A Willowdale man walked away with minimal injuries after his car crashed into a ditch August 21.

Scott Orenstein, 18, was westbound on Highway 118 west of Carnarvon, when the passenger-side wheels dropped onto the shoulder and he lost control of the car. The car went into the ditch and rolled. The accident happened at about 12:45 p.m.

Paddle and Paint a perfect mixture

by Kelly Pettinger

Looking for something interesting, different and fun to do this fall? Do you have a week that you would be more than happy to give up for something adventurous and exciting? Then you just might be interested in a new program which combines canoeing and art.

The program, called Paddle and Paint, was designed by the Bark Lake Leadership Centre, near Irondale, in association with the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Recreation, to give people a chance to enjoy the beauty of autumn and learn how to capture it with paints. The course promises that "by blending the art of watercolour with the joy of canoeing, course participants will experience personal expression, physical activity and peace of mind."

The program has been designed for any level of paddler/painter and it combines on-location demonstrations and individual critiques as well as opportunities for additional outdoor recreation and shopping at the Friends of Bark Lake Shop.

The course will be lead by artist and qualified outdoor recreation specialist Marta Scythes.

Scythes, a former resident of Haliburton County who plans to return here soon on a permanent basis, has been interested in outdoor activities since she was age ten. She attended Camp Calumet on Boshkung Lake for over 13 summers of camping and instructing. Scythes developed a love for canoeing and art at the camp. The camp offered canoe and art trips where she learned to capture the beauty of the outdoors in paintings and drawings.

Scythes has been an instructor with Bark Lake for six years, teaching canoeing, arts and crafts, and environmental studies. As a member of the Ontario Recreational Canoeing Association, Scythes travels to various locations throughout Ontario providing instruction to teenagers and adults to enable them to qualify for their canoeing certificates.

"It will be a lot of fun, and I hope the participants enjoy it as much as I do. We hope there will be a cross-section of ages represented," said Scythes.

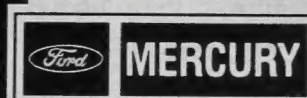

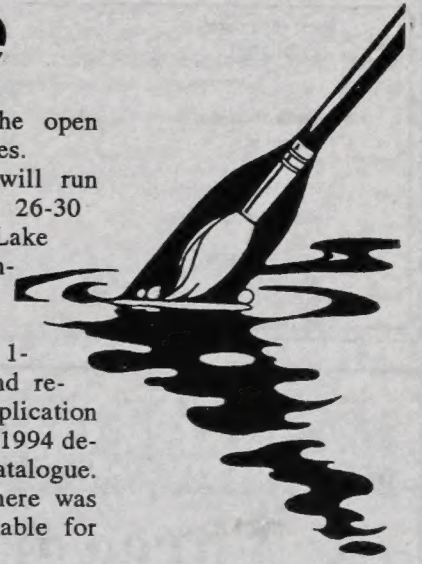

The course offers both indoor studio sessions and short canoe excursions. The daily studio time will include demonstrations, material set-up and a focus on individual expression. All of the artist's materials are provided. The certified staff will teach basic canoe skills. Paddles and personal floatation devices will be provided.

"We will teach the canoe skills with the participant's abilities and safety in mind. The Voyager canoes are easy to handle and we will ensure everyone is comfortable and confident before going out onto the open lake," said Scythes.

The course will run from September 26-30 at the Bark Lake Leadership Centre. For more information call the Centre at 1-800-668-6638 and request a course application and Bark Lake's 1994 detailed program catalogue. At press time there was still space available for the program.

Three great seasons to come

It's hard to believe that summer is almost over. In the blink of an eye, June and July flashed by, and now even August is all but exhausted.

In another week it will be Labour Day, a time when many of the Highlands' seasonal residents start to close up their cottages for another year before heading back to The City for the winter. Before they go, though, we'd like to remind our seasonal friends that the summer is just one of four great seasons in the Highlands.

Nowhere in Ontario can you experience the beauty of autumn better than right here in Haliburton County. The brilliance of the changing leaves covering the hillsides and reflected in the lakes is dazzling. So much so that fall bus tours of the region are now becoming extremely popular. In addition to the gorgeous landscapes, there are many events, such as the Haliburton Highlands Artisans Studio Tour (October 1 & 2) to provide activities for residents and visitors alike.

And then comes winter, complete with fresh, white snow and some of the best skiing, snowmobiling and ice fishing opportunities in the world. This quiet, picturesque setting is the ideal place to spend a Christmas vacation with the family. And the calendar is filled with all sort of activities and attractions including Santa Claus parades, sled dog races and winter carnivals to name just a few.

Finally comes springtime, the most widely underrated season on the Highlands calendar. It's too warm for snowmobiling and too cold for swimming. Still, it is arguably the most wondrous season of all for those who enjoy the outdoors. The absence of nagging insects and the incredible variety of birds and wildlife at their most active level make this the best season for hikes along any of the public trails that wind their way through the woods and along shorelines. The fact that this season is still relatively "undiscovered" makes for uncrowded enjoyment on the trail or on the lakes.

The summer will soon be behind us, but there's still plenty of enjoyment ahead in the three glorious seasons between now and May 24.

R.D.

Angler favours fish protection

Editor,

I have not missed an ice fishing season in Haliburton in over 20 years. I have a portable hut plus a four-man permanent hut. I, like others, was shocked at the Ministry of Natural Resources' Trout Management Report. After letting its facts set in, I am no longer surprised.

First of all, I believe there are more of us ice fishing, whether in a hut or on a snow machine. I can put my hut in my favourite spot and spend the entire day with friends watching our tip-ups. A weekend adds up to 16 hours of fishing per person. No wonder we can catch more trout than trolling in the summer. A hut near me caught 64 in one season some years back.

When it comes to releasing trout, I have to admit it is more difficult getting one released from the hook of a bottom spreader than the rear treble of a trolled spoon. It seems they try to engulf and swallow the minnow all at the same time, causing a deeper-set hook.

Do stocked fish weaken the "natural" population? Well, I would never try to argue we could produce an equal to the "natural" in a hatchery. I am not a fish biologist, but somehow I would prefer a strong and large population of "naturals" versus the mixed breed.

I do not want to moth-ball two huts or give up ice fishing, but I can't pretend we don't have a major problem and maybe I helped contribute to it. I would love to have a future where my sons could still enjoy catching a "natural", so if need be, my huts will gather dust.

I would ask that every cent saved by not adding stocked fish to our natural trout lakes be used to stock rainbows and walleyes in appropriate Haliburton lakes. If we can get enough lakes in our area providing good winter catches of rainbow and especially walleye, then we can get back to buying lots of minnows or tackle, renting huts if need be, or booking motel rooms for ourselves or visitors.

I don't like the medicine being suggested but I would rather take it right away and get the healthy population of trout back in our Haliburton lakes where they belong.

M. Bevan,
Stanhope

Welcome to Minden

Editor

We agree wholeheartedly with the comments in Ken Brown's recent column (From the Dock, Aug. 15, SummerTimes). We've often thought that a sign at Highway 35 reading "Welcome to Minden on the Beautiful Gull River" would entice travellers (and shoppers) to make the turn into town.

Minden has the potential to be one of the prettiest towns in the province. The walk along the river is lovely. Ban parking from the riverside banks and design a walkway for people to stroll and install attractive litter containers to keep the streets clean. This would also fit in perfectly with the Trails and Tours Network strategy. Will one of the candidates for council take this up as an issue?

Committed to health care

Editor

The Citizens' Committee for Health Care is a registered charitable foundation with permission to accumulate funds for the following purposes: Minden Hospital Building Fund; Minden Hospital Equipment Fund; Hyland Crest Building Fund; 30 Long Term Care Bed Fund.

This committee is made up of well-known local citizens who have concerns regarding the above. The membership is prepared to take, and to some degree have taken, political action to protect the continued health care services in this community.

We wish to acknowledge the donation of $552 earned by Dollo's IGA through a fundraising effort for the Minden Hospital. This we have added to donations received from other groups and individuals.

If you wish to make a donation to any of the above, our address is Box 985, Minden, Ontario, or you may contact the writer. A receipt for income tax purposes is available.

Heroic animals deserve much praise

If Cooperstown can have a baseball museum and Montreal can have a humour museum, how come there's no museum of animals?

Animal heroes, I mean. We've had plenty of them. Never mind the celluloid canines like Rin Tin Tin and Lassie and King of the Royal Mounted.

How about Bibs? Bibs was a Laura Secord style canary who lived in Hermitage, Tennessee in the home of an elderly lady. One day the woman took a tumble and hurt herself badly. Bibs, who was out of her cage at the time, flew out the window and down the street to a neighbour's house where he flapped and cheeped at the window until the neighbour took the hint and went to investigate. Bibs saved Old Aunt Tess' life at the cost of his own. He died from the stress of the accident.

Or how about Comanche? He was a quarterhorse who fought the battle of Little Big Horn. Comanches' job was to carry one Captain Myles Keogh through the fray and he did it admirably — even though the horse took seven wounds, three of them serious. Never-the-less when the smoke cleared, only one participant wearing U.S. Cavalry colours was still standing and that was Comanche.

Life got better for Comanche right after that. He became a U.S. military legend with a special army order permitting him free wandering at any army post, lots of parades and absolutely nobody allowed to climb on his back.

Or how about Jack the porpoise? There's a nasty stretch of water called the French Pass off the coast of New Zealand. A century ago, sailors had an unusual way of negotiating the passage — they followed a porpoise who led them through the tricky reefs and currents. From 1871 until 1903, "Jack" as he was known, met and guided every boat that came.

Right up until The Pen-

Horses and hounds, porpoises and canararies have been involved in many daring exploits.

The Penguin was a passenger ship that appeared at French Pass in 1903. As Jack set off in the lead, some drunken fool of a passenger leaned over the bow and shot him in the back.

Fortunately, Jack recovered and resumed his non-paying pilot's job. For the next nine years he guided every ship that appeared at the mouth of French Pass — with the exception of one.

The skipper of The Penguin always knew he was on his own.

There are plenty of animal heroes down through history if you just know where to look for them. As a matter of fact, I've just discovered another one — Hachiko, by name.

Hachiko went some time ago to the Big Dog Kennel in the Sky, but before that Hachiko was a golden brown Akita bitch, who lived with her master in downtown Tokyo.

Although she died nearly 60 years ago, Hachiko is still a hero to millions of Japanese. They line up to view her taxidermied carcass in the National Museum. You can buy books, plaques, statues — even movies and CDs about Hachiko.

Hachiko came by her hero status honestly. She used to walk her master — a commuting professor — to the train station every morning. Every evening when the train came back, Hachiko would be on the platform waiting. But one day in 1925, her master collapsed and died at work.

That evening Hachiko waited in the platform long after the last passenger had departed and the train had gone.

No master.

The next evening, disembarking passengers saw Hachiko waiting again.

And the next night.
And the next.

Hachiko met the train, winter and summer, rain and heat wave, every single evening for the next 10 years. Her loyalty never wavered. She never forgot.

Hachiko died in 1935 and was buried beside her master. There's a statue to her at the train station where she waited for a decade for him to come home. An important statue? You bet. When the station was rebuilt and modernized in 1948, the architect had to design the station around the statue, so that it wouldn't be disturbed.

Hachiko never forgot. Neither, it seems, will the Japanese people.

RICHARD'S EUROPEAN BAKERY

Thursday will mark the opening of Minden's newest bake shop. Richard Milewski, who was the operator of Richard's Restaurant several years ago, is the proprietor of the new business. The bakery will specialize in European style breads and pastries. It is located on Bobcaygeon Road in the new building between Special Effects and the community's Library/Cultural Centre/Museum. Everyone is invited to the opening this Thursday, at which time there will no doubt be some samples to try.

LOG CABIN BAKERY

Sticking with dough, we are pleased to here that the owners of the Log Cabin Bakery in West Guilford have taken over the operation of the Guilford Boy Gift Shop. The two businesses share the same building, an 1867 Confederation log home on the Kennisis Lake Road, and both the building and the gift shop/bakery have become popular attractions for residents and visitors alike.

CANOE WINNER

Ryan Stemp of Haliburton was the winner of a 15 foot canoe and a pair of paddles in a promotional draw sponsored by Town Auto Glass of Minden. The first 50 customers as the new business were eligible for the draw. John Harding of Minden Auto Glass, centre, presented Ryan Stemp with his prize while Keith Oitment of Tri-County Distributors looks on. Both businesses are located in the Valu-mart Plaza on Highway 35, Minden.

LAUNDROMAT PURCHASED

The Haliburton Laundromat, located on Victoria street has been purchased by Annie Cochrane, the owner of Danielle's Total Look Hair Care Salon. The hair salon is just up the street in the Village Plaza, above the coffee shop. We understand Annie has plans to add a second storey to the laundromat building.

GOOD SUMMER

As the business community prepares to shift gears, most of the merchants we talked to seem pleased with the summer trade this year. There were more people in the county than last summer, and while still be cautious about spending, the attitude of consumers has certainly shifted. This can only bode well for the future.

Water levels remain stable

The following report on the Trent-Severn Waterway covers the period leading up to August 24.

Weather conditions in the Haliburton reservoir area have remained near normal over the past week. Thunderstorms on the weekend allowed the decline in reservoir levels to only be 3.5 per cent, down to a stored volume of 71.7 per cent on August 22. Water levels remain above long-term averages for this time of year.

The Kawartha Lakes water levels are stable at the maximum of the navigation ranges. The Otonabee River discharge has had only minor adjustments and is now flowing at 26 cubic metres per second.

Continued late summer dryness will mean tributary and other river flows will remain as they are now, with little change expected in Kawartha Lakes over the next week. The Haliburton reservoirs will likely decline in a similar fashion to the week prior.

The 123rd annual Kinmount Fair will run from September 2 to 4 at the Kinmount Fairgrounds.

Coach profile

Campbell has 20 years' coaching experience

by Jerry Grozelle

Hockey has played a major role in Jerry Campbell's recreational life since he was old enough to lace up a pair of skates.

He played hockey up through the ranks in Minden and still plays in the men's league here. He played for the Haliburton Junior C team and tried out for Junior B, not quite making it through the final cuts.

"I've got hockey in me," he said.

At 35 years of age, Campbell already has 20 years of hockey coaching experience. The only time during the past two decades that he hasn't coached full time was a three-year span when he and his wife Kim first started their family. Even then, he helped out around the arena with various teams when the regular coaches went on holidays or were absent because of illness.

Campbell recalls his first year coaching a Minden novice team. He was 15 and had to rely on his father to chauffeur him from arena to arena.

The next year he had his driver's licence, eliminating the need to rely on someone else for rides.

He coached novice, peewee and bantam for two years each. Then he went to Haliburton to help out as assistant coach with the midget team. There weren't enough players for a midget team in Minden and since Haliburton had more players in that division, the team played there.

The next year, Campbell coached the Minden juvenile team. That team went to the all-Ontario semi-finals under his leadership. The following season saw the juveniles win the all-Ontario title, the last provincial championship that a Minden team has won. That was the 1984-85 season.

In 1985-86, the juvenile team advanced to the semifinals. It would be the last year for a juvenile team in Minden.

That same juvenile team played two consecutive years at a tournament in Nashua, New Hampshire. The Minden squad was the only Canadian team to participate in that tournament and Campbell said the support from the fans in New Hampshire was great. The Minden boys went to the finals at one of those tournaments, losing the championship by a 1-0 score.

Coach Jerry Campbell's philosophy is to give extra attention to those who need it.

Jerry acknowledged the contribution of his nephew Jarrett Campbell to the success of many of the teams he has coached. Jarrett started helping his uncle at age eight as stick boy and since then he has served as trainer, assistant coach and manager.

Campbell coached the Minden bantam team for a year before his three-year sabbatical.

His wife Kim said that much of their courtship was spent at various arenas.

The couple's only son, Judd, started playing hockey in the tyke B division last season and his dad was recruited as the team's coach.

When the tykes first took to the ice, the majority of them couldn't stand up, let alone skate. Campbell worked on the basics of skating with them over the first half of the season.

"They never even touched a puck until after November," he said.

His coaching philosophy has always been to focus his attention on the players who needed it the most. That philosophy paid dividends for the tyke team last season.

"They were ready to play after Christmas," he said.

Tournaments and exhibition games rounded out the second half of the season for the Minden tyke B kids. They tied the first game they played and won the next eight in a row to go undefeated in their first season.

Last season marked another first for Jerry Campbell. It was not only his first stint as coach of a tyke team and the first year he coached his own son. The 1993-94 season was the first time he had a girl on a team he coached.

"Sherry Walker is the first girl I ever coached," he said. "She is a really hard worker and a pleasure to coach."

Sherry may not be the only girl Campbell coaches. Jerry and Kim have three daughters, all of whom are younger than Judd. They are expecting their fifth child early next month. It remains to be seen whether or not any of them will decide to don the blades to partake of Canada's national pastime.

One thing is for certain, Jerry Campbell will be coaching his tyke team again this season.

Stocking not the answer to walleye decline, experts say

by Jerry Grozelle

The long-awaited findings of a panel of walleye experts were released Wednesday at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay.

Dr. Ed Crossman and Dr. Desmond Anthony, both Canadian experts and Dr. Dennis Schupp of Brainerd, Minnesota, reviewed a mountain of data that has been collected on the Kawartha Lakes walleye fishery.

Their conclusions and recommendations were presented last Wednesday evening in the lecture theater of the college.

The expertise of this trio of scientists was enlisted by a steering committee with the mandate to determine if stocking is a viable method of improving the walleye fishery in the Kawartha Lakes.

Walleyes are the most popular sportfish in the region and there has been some concern that the fishery has declined over the past several years.

Crossman noted that walleyes are not native to the Kawartha Lakes, although the habitat conditions are very favourable. The species was introduced to the Kawarthas by the then Department of Lands and Forests during a period from the 1920s to the 1940s. The reason for introducing walleyes is thought to be to attract tourists to the area and possibly to supplement a declining muskellunge fishery.

"The walleye fishing was very good for a couple of decades and then it started to decline," Desmond said.

When the walleyes were introduced, the Kawartha Lakes had a very high population of herring, which provided an abundant supply of food for the walleyes. The herring have all but disappeared because of predation and changing water conditions.

Biologists from the Ministry of Natural Resources have maintained that stocking is not the route to take. To the disappointment of some of the people in attendance, the panel of experts concurred.

The panel has concluded that the walleye fishery is in good health and that the Kawartha Lakes are producing as well as, or better than, comparable lakes in other areas. The experts said that a program of stocking additional fish should not be implemented.

"Stocking of the lakes will not measurably improve the quality of the walleye fishery," the report states.

Current regulations are adequate, according to the panel of experts, if realistically enforced. No further harvest restrictions, such as reducing catch limits, size restrictions or shortening of the season, were recommended. Such measures would be "unpalatable to the resource users", they say, although these management techniques might improve the fishery.

The greatest risk to the walleye fishery, according to the experts, is the loss of spawning areas through eutrophication. Desmond described eutrophication as the natural aging process and said that people accelerate that process.

Schupp explained that an increase in fishing pressure means that it now takes the average angler longer to catch a fish.

Walleye stocking won't help...

"The Kawartha Lakes are fished very intensively," he said. "The share of the individual angler is down as is the average size of the fish caught."

He said that anglers may have to adjust their expectations to a more realistic level.

During the question period, one member of the audience suggested that anglers be educated so they know which fish are the prime breeders. He suggested that if people were aware of which sizes are the prime breeding stock, they might be more likely to voluntarily release more of those fish.

Schupp approved of the suggestion.

The Minnesota walleye expert cautioned against stocking as a panacea. Studies in his home state have shown that stocking caused a corresponding increase in fishing pressure.

"It can be a double-edged sword that can cause more problems than benefits," he said.

The experts recommended that a non-technical Fisheries Advisory Council, with broad public representation, be established for the Kawartha Lakes.

"An immediate task for this committee would be to work out ways in which citizens could contribute to the management of the ecosystem," the report states.

"The Kawartha Lakes are fished very intensively. The share of the individual angler is down as is the average size of the fish caught," Schupp said.

Examples given included creel census, habitat restoration and monitoring water quality.

Data on the fishery needs to be expanded to include more regular creel surveys, monitoring forage species and studying walleye feeding habits, juvenile life history and year-class strength, the panel suggests.

Expansion of the ministry's Fisheries Assessment Unit program to include other relevant aspects of the fishery was the third recommendation of the panel.

Netting surveys of fish populations scheduled to coincide with years of creel surveys and expansion of the spawning bed rehabilitation program were also recommended.

The experts agreed that the regulation of water levels by the Trent-Severn Waterway may have adverse effects on the walleye fishery, but they concluded that more study was required. A general review of the water level regulation policy was recommended to make sure that the interests of all the stakeholders are represented.

Information on the relative contributions of the shoal spawners and the fast water spawners should also be collected.

Valentine shoots low gross in Mountain Lake tourney

The first Mountain Lake Property Owners' Association Golf Tournament was held at the Beaverbrook Golf course on August 20.

Five teams of four golfers competed for prizes donated by the association.

Bob Valentine won the low gross prize and the prize for the shot closest to the hole went to Bill Kerr.

One of the event organizers, Bob Hurre, said that the Haliburton County Fair on the same day may have prevented some of the association members from taking part in the golf tournament. He said the timing will be considered more closely for next year's event.

"It was a very successful day," Hurre said. "We enjoyed the hospitality at Beaverbrook."

Hurre said that the association is trying to become more socially active by organizing various events.

Earlier this summer, a long distance swimming event attracted a dozen people and a boom sailing course for children on August 12 and 13 was also very successful.

Is Haliburton soccer team sinking?

Like a sinking battleship, the Haliburton men's soccer team appears to be headed for the bottom.

A 2-0 loss to Midland United on August 21 in Haliburton has bounced the Haliburton team to sixth place in the nine-team B division of the Huron District Soccer League.

Haliburton has nine points, 14 behind the division-leading Huntsville Strikers and just three ahead of the Bracebridge Blaze, Orillia B and Parry Sound Strikers, with six points each.

The July Rotary Bingo was a huge success. It raised $1,500 for Easter Seals.

by Ethel Muli
For the Minden Rotary Club

The summer fund raiser for the Minden District Easter Seal Society was a Rotary bingo held on July 11. There was an incredible attendance of almost 400 happy bingo players on that Monday night. The net results of the evening will allow this district to present $1,500 to the Barrie Regional Office of Easter Seals.

In our community we have five families directly associated with the Easter Seal Society. Easter Seals supports families having children with special needs.

This support ranges from assistance with the purchase of specialty clothing to assisting with the special equipment for a child's home or offsetting the cost of sending a child to one of the Easter Seals camps in Ontario.

I am extremely pleased with the support shown by the turnout of the participants in the July bingo. A big thank you from me and the Easter Seals kids and their families.

We are planning to participate in the Snow-a-rama held across Ontario each winter. Watch for details coming out late this fall.

10 reasons to use an appraiser with the AACI or CRA designation...

Knowing the value of real estate is critical today. Reduce your liability and be assured of reliable real estate appraisals by using professional real estate appraisers with designations from the Appraisal Institute of Canada.

Here's why:

☒ 1 INDEPENDENT, OBJECTIVE VALUATION. The AACI or CRA is required to provide a completely objective opinion of value, independent of any other business interest.

☒ 2 SOLID PROFESSIONAL TRAINING. Institute designations are earned, not awarded, after a rigorous program of educational courses, many of which are university-level.

☒ 3 PROVEN VALUATION EXPERIENCE. Institute designated members earn their designation after demonstrated, supervised appraisal experience in the market.

☒ 4 CAREER COMMITMENT. Appraisers with Institute designations are committed to a career in the appraisal profession. It's not just a sideline.

☒ 5 ONGOING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT. The Institute has a program of mandatory recertification of its designations - that means members are current, and prepared.

☒ 6 SELF-REGULATION. There is no legislation in Ontario governing the practice of real estate appraisal. The Appraisal Institute governs its members through a strict Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Practice. It's a code with teeth - members who do not follow the rules are disciplined up to and including expulsion.

☒ 7 ONGOING PARTNERSHIP WITH LENDERS. The Appraisal Institute regularly meets with representatives from Canada's lenders and bodies such as the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation and CMHC to discuss industry concerns.

☒ 8 PUBLIC INTEREST. The Appraisal Institute is committed to protecting the public interest; that's why programs such as the Liability Insurance have been developed.

☒ 9 UNIVERSAL ACCEPTABILITY. Appraisals done by designated Institute members are accepted not only by Canadian lenders but also by judicial and regulatory bodies, for purposes of divorce and arbitration, among others.

☒ 10 A HISTORY OF COMMITMENT. Appraisal Institute designations represent more than 50 years of commitment to real estate appraisal as a profession.

We have 20 years experience in Haliburton County.

Townships to upgrade facilities

Glamorgan gets $122,000 for community centre

A $122,250 project in Glamorgan Township has been approved under the Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Works program.

Funding will be used to build an addition to provide for a new kitchen and stage at the community centre. Improvements will also be made to bring the building up to current standards and install a high-efficiency gas furnace.

This project will create an estimated 170 person weeks of employment.

Work is scheduled to start in September and should be completed by November.

"This project will create local jobs while enhancing the quality of life for residents through increased recreational facilities and more community space," said Rural Affairs Minister Elmer Buchanan. "I am also pleased that infrastructure funding will be used to make the facility more energy efficient."

Victoria-Haliburton MP John O'Reilly was equally impressed with the project. "Recreational facilities are essential infrastructures for the growth of a community," he said. "Glamorgan residents will enjoy their community centre for years to come thanks to our infrastructure program partnership and funding."

Glamorgan Reeve Beverly MacDuff said this program has afforded council the opportunity to provide a more efficient and useful facility while creating much-needed employment.

The Infrastructure program is a $2.1 billion shared-cost program designed to create jobs through local priority projects which will improve the province's infrastructures.

Across Ontario, the program is expected to create up to 37,000 jobs.

Five projects okayed for Laxton

Five Laxton Digby and Longford municipal projects totalling $82,461 have been approved under the Infrastructure

Works Program.

Funding will be used for a storage addition to the recreation centre and to install a new roof, exterior doors and new windows at the old school building which has been converted into a municipal office, library, council chambers and storage area.

These projects will create an estimated 64 person-weeks of employment. Work is scheduled to start this month and should be completed by November.

"These projects are intended to upgrade our municipal facilities with the emphasis on energy conservation and additional storage space," said Reeve Doug Horton. "An immediate benefit is in providing work for contractors primarily from Victoria County."

Staanworth Court residents awakened by rooster's crow

Residents of Staانworth Court had an extra gift from the local County Fair when they were awakened on the Sunday morning by the crowing of roosters. Some folks though they had taken a big step back in time.

Under the guidance of Sylvia Howard, residents have helped promote the sale of tickets in support of Canine Vision. This money collected is used to train a seeing eye dog for a blind person.

We were all sorry when Sylvia was hospitalized and unable to work at the project the last few weeks. But the mission was helped greatly by the interest and assistance of the Pathfinder girls. They were great salesladies at the Fair.

Canine Vision says a big thank you to Naomi Stephenson-Aggett, Morgan Stackhouse, Jessica Belcher, Megan Sisson, Ginny Adamson, Lisa Reinwald and Lisa Kowaltschuk.

Not to be outdone by the ladies, a couple of young fellows, Ryan Sisson and Josh Belcher, wandered through the crowds selling tickets.

Winners on the draw were: Paul Llewellyn of Norland, 1st prize, a handmade Afghan; Cathy Ellis of Pickering, 2nd prize, a hand-knitted Blue Jay sweater; Floyd Miller of Minden, 3rd prize, a baby crib quilt. Thanks to all for such enthusiastic support.

Jean and Harry Cowan were also great workers for the Canine Vision but Jean was also hospitalized the last week. It hasn't been the healthiest summer for some of our residents but we are all hoping things will improve and we can enjoy those beautiful fall days.

Len and Mable Trodd enjoyed a trip out to British Columbia to visit relatives and attended graduations of grandchildren. Doris Foster visited with relatives in Hamilton and Frank and Marion Fisher spent some time at a cottage. Other residents had visits from family and friends who enjoy the friendliness of Minden in the summertime.

Crime victims may be eligible for compensation

The Ontario Criminal Injuries Compensation Board hears claims for compensation from innocent victims of crimes of violence occurring within Ontario.

Applications must be received within one year of the injury or death of the victim (whether or not charges have been laid); extensions may be granted under special circumstances.

Documentation is required to support the claim and an investigation may be required.

The hearing process is gentle and informal. It may be public or private depending on the crime.

Awards may reflect medical costs, lost wages, pain and suffering, child support in the event of pregnancy by rape.

Further information is available when you call toll free 1-800-372-7463.

Parade, bus trip are highlights of residents' week

Hi Folks. It's a little more like summer again. There was very little happening on Saturday as there was no entertainment.

On Sunday, Estella Burch was in London with her son, so we didn't have our reading. We missed it but were happy for her. In the evening, Rev. Burgess conducted chapel service explaining the event of the crucifixion as told by Mark. June Mason played beautiful organ music. We thank both John and June.

On Monday we had fitness in the morning and a movie in the afternoon.

Tuesday morning chapel was conducted by Rev. Peter Walford-Davis and Jean Cox played the organ. We thank Rev. Walford-Davis for his inspiring message and Jean Cox for the lovely music. Doris and Linda took the residents from Blossom and Apple Lanes for a bus ride to Donald. We had ice cream at the Donald Dairy Bar. Thanks to the dairy for the discount. Dottie Muirhead did crafts in the activities room. Thank you Dottie.

In the evening Corinne and Pearl helped a few of the residents play euchre. Thanks Corinne and Pearl.

On Wednesday, we loaded the bus with residents from Carnation Way and Primrose Lane for a drive to Pikes Peak. We purchased fish and chips from Gramma's Fish

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

and Chips. Some of us stayed on the bus to eat while some ate at a picnic table. The fish was delicious, the weather fine. We boarded the bus and headed to the Ingoldsby General Store for ice cream and then back to Hyland Crest. Thanks to the volunteers, Kathy Woods, Dottie Muirhead and Mabel Deacon. In the evening, we enjoyed music by Everett Faireyrey. We thank him sincerely.

Thursday tea party was hosted by the United Church Ladies from Carnarvon. Eleanor Hamilton played the piano and we had a delicious lunch. We are very grateful to the ladies. We thank the Schlossers for calling bingo Thursday evening.

On Friday during Happy Hour we were entertained by Ed and Billie Pickard, Ed on the accordion and Billie on the bongos. Everyone enjoyed their lively music and we thank them heartily. Volunteers were Don and Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemain and Dottie Muirhead. We thank them for their cheerful help with the residents and friends.

Three cheers for Hyland Crest taking second prize at the Minden parade.

People Who Make a Difference

Serving the County's best ice cream with a smile

by Kelly Pettinger

They serve you the County's best ice cream, bring fresh milk and other dairy products almost right to your front door, and as always, they give you service with a smile.

Don and Opal Crowe, have spent over 25 years helping with the building and growth of the famous Kwartha Dairy in Minden and Bobcaygeon. As part owners, the Crowes along with Don's two brothers, have put their hearts into making Kwartha Dairy a household name.

And that is just what the Kwartha Dairy is. "We've been down in the States and people have asked us where we were from. When we say that we are from Minden, a lot of people recognize the name because they have been to the Dairy. They don't remember the cottage they visited, but they remember us," said Don.

Don has been a part of the dairy business all of his life. His father owned a dairy farm in Minden and Don helped out with the cows and milk delivery. When he was old enough he helped his father with the dairy farm, and he drove a horse-drawn a milk wagon and delivered milk when he was a teenager.

"One lady said to me that she can remember me being in a little bassinet beside my mother in the wagon. So I guess I have been helping out since I was born," said Don.

Opal had never had anything to do with farming in her life, until she met Don. For years she worked as a waitress and had other part-time jobs in Minden. "I guess I married into the dairy business when I married Don," she laughed.

The dairy in Minden has seen many changes over the years, including an extension to the parking lot, additions to the building and a new roof was put on about six years ago, along with the dairy's mascot, what else, a large statue of a cow.

"I always wanted a big cow somewhere, but we didn't have any place to put it. When it came time to put on a new roof, about six years ago, I had the crane operator put the cow up there too. We bought the little cows that stand outside on either side of our driveway from Guelph. When I wanted a big one made we went back to the same place. It certainly does attract attention and we get a lot of comments about it," said Don.

When it come to cow collectables, the Crowes know all there is to know about buying "cow toys." They have everything from ceramic posed cows to cow chimes; from cow dolls to a cow quilt. Not one room in their house has been left un-cow-vered.

"I have been collecting cow-related objects for many years now. Every Christmas or on my birthday I receive cow cards, cow presents, cow everything. I just love cows," said Opal.

MOOOVE OVER! Don and Opal Crowe with one of the hundreds of cow-related items in their collection.

Last year Opal counted the number of cow related items in their home. "There were over 500 different things.... that was last year and it certainly has grown since then. I'm sure I've added at least 50 new collectables, and I plan to keep on collecting," she said.

The Crowes do not usually bring their work home with them. If you were to look in their freezer, you would not find an ounce of ice cream. "We don't really eat a lot of ice cream. Our youngest son does though. You would think he would get sick of it. He works with it and then he brings it home at night. He will come home with a box of ice cream and cut it in half, go downstairs and eat the whole thing while he watches television. I don't know how he does it. And I don't know where he puts it either, he is as skinny as a rake," said Opal.

Over the years the Kwartha Dairy has donated money, freezers, chocolate milk and ice cream to many different charities, functions and local groups such as the Minor Hockey League, and the Haliburton County Fair. As a result of their outstanding generosity, This year the Crowes were awarded the Agricultural Society Award at the Haliburton County Fall Fair.

"These two are a couple of fine citizens," said Master of Ceremonies Bill Payne before presenting the Crowes with their award at the Fair.

"It doesn't seem like we have done that much around here, but I guess when you add it all up it comes to quite a bit," said Opal.

Because of their busy schedule, the Crowes do not have much time to join local groups.

"We're involved with the K-40 club. We used to be part of the Kinsmen club, but most of us who were there for a long time are over 40 now so the K-40 club was started. We don't do as much as the Kinsmen Club. Instead we just take it easy and we socialize. It's a lot of fun and there are a lot of do's and barbecues to go to, but being as busy as we are, we can't attend all of them," said Opal.

HALIBURTON COUNTY FAIR

Dig a trench, add water, stir it up into a thick gumbo, and you've got all the makings for a mud race. Tom Prentice and the Kinsmen Club did just that at the Fair Grounds on Sunday while competitors waited their turns to drive their four-wheel-drive vehicles into the slop. The objective was to see how far the vehicles could go before getting bogged down. Champion Harland Doige, above, demonstrates his special technique for beating the bog.

Some people say we need more gun control.

But here's what you already have to do to own a firearm in this country:

- ✓ Take an optional Federal course and mandatory test to qualify for a Firearms Acquisition Certificate (FAC).
- ✓ Submit to a thorough police examination of your social, employment and psychological history, when you apply for the FAC.
- ✓ Go through an interview process with police and provide solid references.
- ✓ Wait a mandatory 28 days before your FAC is approved and issued with a photograph.
- ✓ If you want to hunt, you must take a separate test on firearms handling.
- ✓ Abide by strict federal laws that govern dozen of firearms handling and safety situations. They include: Storing firearms and ammunition separately and under lock and key; rigid transportation standards; and tough guidelines for using firearms.

CANADA ALREADY HAS AMONG THE TOUGHEST FIREARMS LAWS IN THE WORLD. LEGAL FIREARMS OWNERS ARE NOT CAUSING CRIME! CRIMINALS ARE!

Care home residents have tenant rights

Residents of Ontario's care homes now have full tenant protection under the Residents Rights Act, which became law last week.

Approximately 47,000 care home residents are now protected by the same laws as other Ontario tenants: the Landlord and Tenant Act, the Rent Control Act and the Rental Housing Protection Act.

A care home provides some type of care service such as health care or care that provides assistance with daily living. They include unlicensed nursing homes, rest homes, retirement residences, homes for special care, group homes, rooming and boarding homes that provide care services and private non-profit charitable institutions.

Protection under the Landlord and Tenant Act, provides residents with security of tenure, which means a tenant can only be evicted for one of the reasons contained in the Act. It calls for a written tenancy agreement to outline the care services and meals to be provided and their costs.

The Rent Control Act limits rent increases, and sets rules regarding rent increases (rents can only be increased once a year and 90 days notice must be given).

The Rental Housing Protection Act protects the province's supply of rental housing. Operators must get municipal approval before converting a care home into another kind of facility.

The Residents Rights Act is based on recommendations of the Commission of Inquiry into Care Homes by Dr. Ernie Lightman.

In his investigation, Lightman found that care home residents are vulnerable to abuse, ranging from arbitrary eviction, unsafe living conditions and inadequate care, to lack of privacy and other problems relating to health and personal safety.

The Residents' Rights Act also deals with apartments in houses. It allows homeowners to create one self-contained apartment in their house, provided it meets fire and safety standards. This portion of the Act was proclaimed on July 14.

Rent controls set at 2.9 per cent for 1995

The Ministry of Housing rent review guideline for 1995 has been set at 2.9 per cent.

The new guideline which takes effect January 1, 1995, is simply that -- a guideline -- an amount by which a landlord can increase the maximum rent for a unit during the year without an approval from the Ministry of Housing.

A tenant does not have to accept a rent increase at or below the guideline and may challenge an increase by applying to Rent Control.

Ninety days written notice of any increase must be given and rents can only be raised once in each 12-month period, even when a new tenant moves in.

For further information call the office of Rent Control Programs at 1-800-461-1255.

Is your driveway an eyesore?

Driveway improvements heighten 'curb appeal'

This article is provided by local realtors and the Ontario Real Estate Association for the benefit of consumers in the real estate market.

When you look at your driveway, do you see an eyesore that you would prefer to cover up with a huge tarpaulin? Do you find pieces of asphalt heaving up in your hands as you try to dislodge weeds growing haphazardly in the cracks? Or, do the ruts in your driveway make your car appear to be slowly sinking into a quagmire?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, then it's probably time to consider giving your driveway the facelift it deserves — and now is an ideal time of the year to do it.

After all, whether you realize it or not, one of the most important aspects of the entrance to your home is your driveway. Regardless of whether it's large or small, simple or elegant, your driveway plays a critical role in the overall appearance of your home, adding to its overall "curb appeal".

Endless Possibilities

With the wide array of products available today, the possibilities are endless. You can choose from interlocking stone, asphalt, crushed stone or concrete. With a little bit of planning and research, you can create your own unique effect.

To get ideas, look around your neighbourhood to see what other people have done to their driveways. If you like what you see, ask them for the name of the contractor or paving company which handled the job. Also consult with friends or relatives to see if they can make recommendations regarding products or companies.

It's also a good idea to browse through the home improvement section of your local library and look for magazines featuring stories about driveways. These sources should help spark your imagination. You may also want to complement your new driveway by replacing your walkway or porch as well. Obviously, it's more cost efficient to have all this done at the same time, rather than doing it in a piecemeal fashion over a number of years.

Asphalt

Asphalt is generally the most common material used for driveways. And if you have an extremely large driveway, asphalt is usually the most cost effective route to go.

This type of surface can last for several years if properly installed and maintained. However, like most surfaces, it can become stained by oil and paint spills — or gouged and marked by sharp items — so it's important to treat asphalt driveways with extra care.

If you choose this type of surface, you can seal it every couple of years to help protect and prolong its life. Cracks and holes can be fixed with special patching compounds sold at your local hardware store or building supply centre.

Concrete is another driveway option. An extremely strong and durable surface, it can withstand a lot of weight and is particularly good for driveways with sharp angles. Again care must be taken to protect it against spills.

Crushed stone is an alternative as well. Easy to maintain, it can be manipulated if certain areas become worn down. In winter, however, there is potential for some stone to become displaced when you shovel snow.

Interlocking Stone

One of the most popular options these days is interlocking stone. There are numerous colours and shapes to choose from and stones can be laid in an endless number of patterns. While this may cost more than an asphalt driveway, you have more options — such as matching the colour of brick in your home as an accent colour in the driveway.

This type of driveway can also be sealed to protect it from the elements and potential spills. Like other types of driveways, it's important to have a good, solid base on which to place the surface.

Once you've established what you want and what your budget restrictions are, select a few paving companies or contractors for price quotations. Make sure you give each the same information about what you want done, so that you can compare quotes objectively.

There's no hiding human impact

The return to a city after six days rafting along a wild river in northern British Columbia is quite a shock. I'm still trying to think through the experience.

When we began the trip at the head of the Babine River, we put our rafts in at a weir built by the federal government. Sockeye salmon completing their long journey from the sea up the Skeena River and then the Babine, are stopped by that weir so that scientists can determine the number and make-up of the run and regulate the number of fish in the spawning beds.

Driven by the powerful urges of their genes, the fish gather restlessly behind the barrier until they find a series of slots through which they swim only to be trapped in metal cages. At regular intervals, summer students open a horizontal slit so the fish can slither by and be counted and classed as mature or "jacks" (immature males).

Impounded in the metal cage, the fish frantically leap into the air, repeatedly smashing themselves against the metal sides. It was a horrifying reminder of a giant dam on the Parana River in South America.

Many of the fish in the Parana migrate up and down the river foraging for food or spawning beds. So a fish "elevator" has been installed to carry the fish from one side of the dam to the other. Fish attempting to escape the elevator made the same sickening clank of flesh on metal as the desperate animals on the Babine.

The elevator is a cruel and ridiculous technological solution to the natural instincts of fish. And here in Canada, in the name of science, experts were treating the fish in a similarly unnecessary and destructive way.

Tourist rafting on the Babine has increased the human traffic considerably. This summer, 200 or 300 people will probably make the trip. Since there are very few sites

Reflections

by David Suzuki

along the rugged banks that can comfortably accommodate tents and rafts, there is increasing pressure on them. There is also concern that though wild, animals could become habituated to humans by rooting through any refuse or even digging up latrines.

Our rafting guides went to impressive lengths to minimize our impact. There wasn't a sign of human detritus, like packaging, bottle tops or cans on the entire trip. Every bit of food that was brought in was consumed, carried back out unused or burned and the ashes spread on the river.

Only small branches of dead driftwood were collected and used for firewood so they could be burned completely and the ashes dispersed. Most surprising was the collection of all human feces so they could be transported off the river. Of course we did have an impact on the ecosystem, but every effort was made to minimize it.

It was a privilege to enter territory where the wild creatures -- eagles, salmon and bears -- so clearly belonged. Without even being aware of it, we showed our respect by our own behaviour. When we encountered grizzly bears fishing, we waited and watched quietly until they had finished and left on their own before we continued on our way.

At the Skeena River, we encountered our first evidence of clear-cut logging on both sides of the river. Along the river banks, a fringe of trees was left all the way up to the tops of the banks. But the sky was visible through the highest trees and the narrow strip of trees became an insult, an inadequate illusion of the real forest.

There was a striking contrast between the river banks along the Babine and those on the Skeena. Slides where rock and dirt had come away and dropped toward the river carrying trees, were not at all noticeable on the Babine -- in fact, I didn't even see any. But once we hit the logged area, slide after slide was obvious along the banks, many of them recent.

It may be true that the bottoms of natural slides are places where some of the largest trees in the wild forest can be found. But a natural slide is not common and when the thin soil piles up at its bottom, it can be an exceptionally fertile area for future trees.

But along a river, the soil slides right off the hills into the water while the gashes remaining are inhospitable challenges for any future trees. So even where trees are left for cosmetic purposes, clear-cut logging nearby has visible effects.

In the wild, the interconnectedness of living systems becomes obvious. The salmon and steelhead runs up the Skeena and Babine are famous and important for sport, commercial and native food fisheries.

But they are also intimately connected to biophysical and meteorological rhythms that are disrupted by large clear-cutting. And the populations of bears, eagles and microorganisms are intertwined with the fate of salmon. An experience of the wild uplifts the human spirit and also makes us rethink some of our assumptions and beliefs.

NOTICE OF PASSING OF BY-LAW TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON AND MINDEN ZONING BY-LAW NO. 94-44

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden passed By-law Number 94-44 on August 25, 1994 under Section 34 of the of the Planning Act, R.S.O. 1990.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect to this By-law by filing with the Clerk of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden not later than September 18, 1994, a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the By-law and the reasons in support of the objection.

NOTE: As the last day of appeal falls on a holiday, appeals may be filed on the day following, that is not a holiday.

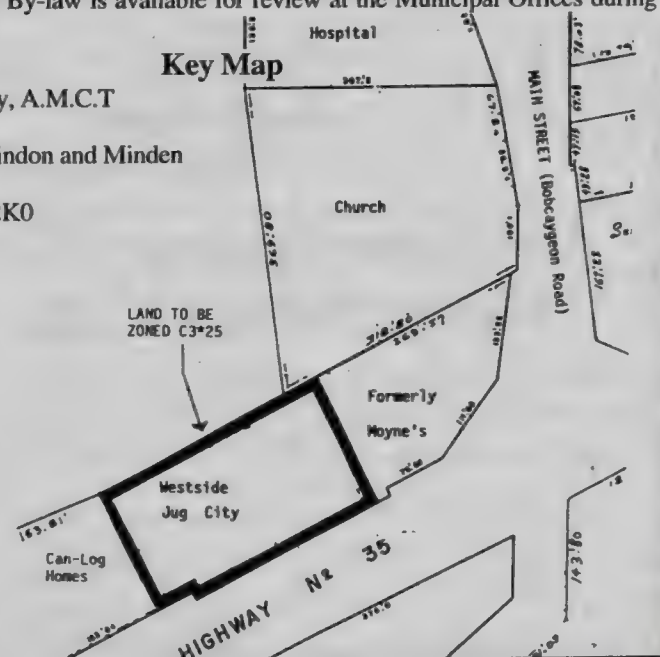

The purpose of the zoning By-law amendment is to change the zoning category of approximately 0.5 hectares (1.2 acres) of land on Part of Lot 1, Concession A, Township of Anson (Westside Jug City), from the Highway Commercial (C3) zone to the Highway Commercial Exception Twenty-Five (C3*25) zone.

The effect of the zoning change is to add a definition for 'Bowling Alley', amend the definition of 'Dwelling Unit, Apartment', and permit, in addition to the existing permitted uses, a bowling alley and a maximum of six apartments.

The land affected by the zoning By-law amendment is shown on the key map as the "LAND ZONED C3*25".

A copy of the complete By-law is available for review at the Municipal Offices during regular office hours.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Congratulations to Mr and Mrs John Wells, Mr and Mrs Ted Brandon and Mr and Mrs Godfrey Tyler who were all married on August 20. Seem to be a lot of weddings this year, good luck to everyone.

Winners of the weekly Monday afternoon euchre games at St. Paul's were, for most lone hands Verna McDonald and others Roberta Walker, Elli Langpohl and Nancy Gayton with lucky Marie taking the draw.

Visiting family this past weekend while taking in the Wells' wedding were Corry Ziorjen, Chris Bunker, Richard Beers, Lynn Bibby and Bryan Smith and Terri Legge and fiancé Al Rothwell. Lots of fun when old friends get together.

Club 35 euchre results from August 22: 50-50 Bob Lewis, Betty Campbell with most lone hands, Jeanne Penick and Mary Schad with the highs and Maisie McCrone, Norm Lee and Sally Rose. Special prizes went to Betty Campbell and Maisie McCrone. The next Wheels to Meals will be August 30 at 12 noon.

During the last thunderstorm, someone's canoe drifted down river and ended up at Nancy Adamson's. If you lost a canoe recently, please give Nancy a call in the evening.

Branch 636 Seniors enjoyed 3 tables of euchre on Tuesday August 23 and the winners were: Shirley Elcome with most lone hands, Marie Dennie and Irene took the highs and the other winner was Marg McAfee. The games are held every Tuesday at the Legion at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to come out and enjoy the fun.

Congratulations to Lloyd Johnson who had several wins on his entries at the fair.

Weekly bridge game winners at Stanhope on Tuesday, August 23 were Stella McMillan, Dorothy McIntyre and Jack Foote. The bridge games are held in Stanhope every Tuesday at 1 p.m. and no partners are required. Come out and join the gang.

Carolynn Leaman passed on the following: South Lake Trailer Park had Hallowe'en for the kids on August 20 when a big party was held at the Rec Hall with games and prizes for the children who then went "shelling out" at the trailers with pumpkins. There were lots of great costumes. Afterwards a dance was enjoyed by everyone and the music was provided by "Wild Rhubarb".

Bid Euchre winners at Stanhope on Wednesday August 24 included for Moonshots Jane Hewitt, Jean Scadden, Betty Skinner, Milton Fletcher, Jim Foster and George Hewitt. Prizes went to Carol Duncan, Jean Scadden, Jeanne Penick, Norm Lee, Bill Milford and Bob Lewis.

Visiting with Lyle and

Linda McKnight are daughter LuAnn, her husband Dr. Steven Strauss and their three sons, from Salem, Oregon Floating around the office this week is Kelly Pettinger who spent Sunday at Wonderland drooling over the "Men of Days of Our Lives" along with 4,000 other screaming women! Along with friend, Andrea Schatt, Kelly waved a huge banner in front of the actors.

Gil and Mary Parcell and granddaughter Andrea Hughes enjoyed a trip to Nova Scotia, and P.E.I. recently. They also visited their son Steve in Halifax.

Soon be time for all the little darlings to be heading for school. We have had a lovely summer but I'm sure the kids (and parents) will be glad to get back to their routine.

Good wishes to everyone on the sick list - sorry we don't have specific names but you know we wish you well.

Kelly Pettinger enjoyed a visit with friends Melissa Cookman and Clark Palmer on Monday. The visitors are soon to be wed and the trio took the opportunity to discuss the big day.

The Haliburton County Fair made for a very exciting weekend on August 20 and 21. The parade on Saturday was outstanding with its many interesting floats. Fortunately, the rain held off until the activity has subsided.

Speaking of Fairs, we're looking forward to the Kinmount Fair on September 2, 3 and 4. This is the 20th largest Fair in Ontario.

Valerie Lougheed and children, Jesse and Caleb, visited relatives in Gravenhurst and took in a ride on the R.M.S. Seguin.

Best wishes to Doug Campbell who is recovering in hospital in Peterborough following an operation.

The Child Care Forum of Haliburton is Seeking New Members

The Child Care Forum of Haliburton is a volunteer planning body that supports families and the community by promoting and enhancing a full range of quality child care options. The Forum is looking for new members to join their regular monthly meetings.

The Child Care Forum just completed a Strategic Planning session in July, 1994 which details an exciting plan of action for the next 18 months.

Your views and participation as parents and/or community members are essential to the future planning for "quality" child care in Haliburton County. If you are interested in joining this dynamic group, please contact: 457-1888. 8DE
